

WAREHOUSE THEATRE COMPANY

VOLUNTEER SPOTLIGHT

MEET BETH PARKER

If you want to see what volunteerism looks like at the Warehouse Theatre Company, look no further than the work of WTC board member Beth Parker.

Beth is a prime example of the “can-do” spirit that is so crucial to our success. She just finished a stint as the stage manager for the sell-out show “A Christmas Carol.” Even before that job was finished, she took on the decorating role for the Warehouse’s entry in this year’s “Holiday Lights Extravaganza” at the Yakima Valley Museum. The event runs Dec. 5 – 16.

Thanks to Beth’s work, the WTC has a beautiful presence in this showcase of over 30 Valley nonprofits. Visitors to the museum can vote for the Warehouse display as a favorite; every vote has cash value that comes back to the theatre.

In addition to her work with WTC, Beth is a director-at-large & volunteer coordinator for Yakima Pride.

Beth truly exemplifies volunteerism!

The mission of the Warehouse Theatre Company is to engage, enrich and encourage our community through shared experiences in theatre arts.
